THE "TIME-SPIRIT."

Some days ago THE OREGONIAN, speaking of the revised version of the Old Testament, said: "The work of the revisers marks a change in Christology that any one can see, though it does not represent the whole change." In other words the Jesus of history is gradually taking the place of the Christ of dogma, even in the churches. The old versions of the Bible were made to represent precenceived opinions and to support ingenious and labored theological sys-tems. From this the new one is not wholly free, but it is a step toward an interpretation of the Bible on historical and literary principles. Hitherto the very words and phrases in which its texts have been translated have been chosen with a view chiefly to a supposed necessity of ustaining dogmas, doctrines and systems of theology. The present departure is a sign of the

to come.

It is evident to every person who knows anyiting of the literary method, that our English translations of the Bible were made by men with their heads full of the sixteenth and seventeent on and so on—the object of the transis tern being rather to express their own concep-tions than to get near the thought of the sacred writers. The prophets and St. Paul, particular-ly, have been treated in this way. There was no just sense of the true scope and limits of the tion in religious deliverances. Within the sphere of religious emotion expressions which have an eloquence and propriety, but which are no. to be taken out of it, were made into formal and Watthew Arnold says of St. Paul, that what such man as the great apostic—a man o separated from us by time, race, raining and crominatances—really thought, we training and circumstances—really thought, we can never make sure of knowing exactly. All we can do is to get near it, reading him with the sort of critical tact which the study of the human mind and its history, and the acquain-tacce with many meat writers naturally gives for following the movement of any one single Lreat writer's thought, reading him also with-cut preconceived theories to which we wan to make his thoughts fit themselves. This is a run canen of literary judgment, whether applied to Aschving Avistoribanes or the authors of the redar, to Isaiah, Daniel or St. John.

All this even our doctors of theology are be-ginning to see, and we are moved to these renarks by noting the contents of several articles in the current number of the Andower Review This review is a monthly magazine of religion, theology and literature, conducted by professors etts. It is the arm of the editors "to proing thought of the world." The whole contents of the magazine give evi-

The whole contents of the magazine gire evidence of the "advancing thought." The first article, headed "The Question Restated," Is an Inquiry into the describe of biblical inspiration, in the form or spirit of a protest against the common method of making a theory of inspiration dominate historical criticism, and of forcing into the framework of dogmas uncompromising historical facts. The sense of what we have said above as to interpretation of the mind of the authors of the lible is repeated in this Anderer article "Formerly the answer to the carrower inquiry after a theory of inspiration was made to dominate the broader inquiry into the origin and eature of sacred scripture, with respect to history medias with respect to text. What little history uiverse to the theory of the logicians' -the makers of a rigid theological system

One of the editors of the Kircze, in an article on "The Atonement," says plainly that "the church even now waits for a doctrinal statement (on the stenement) which shall be comprehen ive, satisfactory and at the same time free from ethical objections and inconsistencies." and aneducan objections and inconsistencies, and arrelog-ment of the Messianic Hope," shows the influence of the bistorical and ra-tionalistic tendency to question whether in the life and mission of Jesus there was anything which can properly be said of David's line who should restore the glore of the kingdom of David-the golden age of race "Broadly speaking," says the writer, "those pussages of the Old," es are Messlame that promise a deliverance from present distress ' it is 'a return of the Pavidic greatness that is looked for ' the idea "connects itself hierally with the name, the place, the family of David, and yet what it looks for is not David, but the kingdom and glorg of The intensity of this idea was created by the unhappy condition into which the indicate half faden, the off reasons which it was forced to endure the sore misery of the people and heir natural enging for deliverance. Such conceptions and conclusions caundt but greatly modely the old dectrines an i dogmas of Cholastic theology They give to Jesus a nat ural and rational three in human history and open the way for conformation of religious teach og to the general spirit of that intellectual movement which loose to the career of manking as developed through historical process and interpreted by spiritual insight, for an account or explanation of itself. They allow and even require man to interpogate his own consciousness for light on the great ques-tions of his being, and, as his consciousness whichs they reveal to him an orderly and rege lar growth in conformity with natural law, where before there were only contradictions velled under the name of mysteries, which he was assured he never could understand, and rendered even more hopeless by a dogmotic jargon delivered in terms of authority and wift the forced precision of a logical method from which there could be no appeal

IS II I LEGITION

The Stangard thinks it worth while to print an article to sustain the assertion that all the former secessionists of the south ar hearthy glad that the Union has been preserved, and that all the former slaveholders of the south are as he utily glad that slavery has been This has become a favorite statement with the democratic newspapers. It appears to be made with a view of reconciling the country as far as possible to the rule of the party whose main effective strength is in the

If the statement is true the ex-slaveholders and secessionists are certainly a very surquiar and very changeful people. It is not very long since they were carrying on a desperate war with the avowed purpose of getting free from their association with the free states, so that they could make slavery perpetual. It appears, however, that they were aboring under a little mistake. They really didn't want the results which they were making the most prodigious efforts to achieve, though perhaps it will still be admitted that they thought they wanted them But even so it is not very satisfactory to the great mass of those who prevented them from accomplishing their objects to find a people who make "mistakes" of this kind the chief power now in directing the policy and affairs of the Country

But it is probable after all that they are not so glad they failed It is easy enough for them to say his new, for the sake of putting the best possible face upon a bad matter but if so re narkable a revolution had really taken nince. if they were in faction and ready taken place, if they were in faction to very glad that they failed under the seccession banner, and that slavery was abolished in spite of their efforts to maintain it, it would really seem strange that they should achieve with so passionate a devotion to the political party which was the sole stay and prop both of seconsion and slavery, and more-over that they should adhere to it solely because it was the sole stay and propi of both. The Statistant would make them the meet unstable fickies and volatile people in history. Yet there pever has been it their character anything to make them appears to. There is no light how on the subjects at issue in the rebellion that did not exist; twenty-five years ago. Slavery hos on the subjects at many in the receiver that die not exist; twenty-five years ago. Shavery hen was as odious to the moral sense of mankind as It is now, and the only object of secession was to uphole slavery.

There is no person of judgment who does not know that if the southern states were left to themselves slavery would be re-established. What prevents it is the overwhe ming weight of always had their way there, would set up the claim that the only possible solution of the political, social and everlouic questions growing out of the presente of so large a black population would be to reduce that population again to subjection and servitude. And they would carry it by their usual methods of terrorism and

GENERAL NELEGY A. MILES.

The surmage of The Chegovian respecting the movements of foreneral Nelson A. Miles, put for h ten days age, have been confirmed. The general has been domitted; sesigned to dury in the department of the Missouri; and is now an route eas ward with the prospect of taking the fight immediately agrines the Cheronne Indians, centeral Miles' service in the department of tigo Comming has been comparatively speaking, unevantru, but the fact that it has been so is due largely to his character and reputation as a soldier and to his abilities as a diplomat in dealing with the Indiana. He came in the submer of 1831, when its substantions which had caused two bloody wars were still rife, and white several to the submer of the su enough can stamp out ar. Indian war, but very few car entirely subdue Indians peacefully. This Ger era, Miles did for us. He was peculi-arly fitted for the vork. iana and Dakota was as familiar to the Indians as the writes and they dreaded conflict with a man who had never in led of success. They knew, too, of his friendship for the Indian race, of his fair treatment of he conquered Joseph and others who had fallen into his bands. To and others who had make held this hands. To the Indian mind he was an inventible here who knew how to conquer but who knew also how to govern peacefully. Heades this great ad-vantage of reputation, he had in his personal and general staff officers scattely less experienced it an himself and devoted as he was to peaceful settlement of the many problems of the time Indeed, it may be doubted if all of General Miles's efforts would have come out successfully as they did if he had not had the able and devoted assistance of Capitain Frank Baldwin and others who carried out his plans most important particular service which ten-aral Mike accomplehed in the department. To secure peace at a critical time the government had made ar extrategant, grant to Moses and his people, and lafer it was found almost im-possible to maintain its terms. For some months there was immunent danger of trouble, and on grounds, too, which afforded the Indians a sort of perficetion. Nobody better that The Generouslas knows how critical the situation was and with what consummate ability it was managed. The outcome was really a triumph of diplomacy, and already it begins to furnish the outlines of an Indian pol cy to take the place of our present attacly in-effective and victous system. We believe that General Miles has hit upon a plan of Indian management which, if generally applied, would solve the long-standing and perplexing Incian problem. It would not indeed, left the give him the opport inity under favorable conditions to work out his own sulvation. And sal-tion is just no civilization at all.

Independent of his mulitary service, General Mi ea has won high esteem among us by his in-tel igent and helpful interest in the develop-ment of the country. He has appreciated the natural greatness of the northwest and has had the fullest confidence in its 'nture. He has proved this in many substantial ways, and in leaving is he does not give up all connection will the country We wish Lim and, all with him, success and God speed

Ti ose who complain of bard times in Oregon would ou well to compare the business and in dustrial situation here with that in the eastern and western states. The street car strike at thirnge affords syndence of the hard conditions in that city where, presumable, wages are higher than in any other of the great cines The strikers returned to work at the rate of $12 labor of soverteen hours each. Pellow Democrate Four long, wears months of waiting have come and passed since the democracy have grasped the empty bag of power. The winds of March softened into the tephys of spring, the trees put forth their PLRASAYT TRY.—To parties who was to spend a day out (f town up more pleasant trip nor one in which more of the beauty and grand-cur of nature can be emipped, gail he anglested than a trip to the Cascades by Ross. The magnificent scenery can be fully enjoyed f om the river and it is the finest to be seen on any recr. The Binge and the Hucson cannot cumpare. And on a consionable boat with a cool merce blowing and a captain who has sailed the river for over a quarter of a century, and can pount out every olift, cag and cascade and give you devery olift, cag and cascade and give you be bistory of every place along the river, the hours from 7 A. M. to 5 P. M. cannot be more pleasantly passed. There is something to interest at every turn. Here you see an old duck leading her broad as yet unable to fly, leading her broad as yet unable to fly, and who skim along the surface in their frantic efforts to get out of the way of the steamer. Fert you see a fend almon faiting down the stream, killed, probably, in its efforts to past the cascades, a crow standing on its silvery side making a mea; then huge cliffs and sattlemented crass attract the eye, at a rocky point is seat the frowing entiarce of a railroad tunnel, while about he front sit thoseands of swallows whose needs are soit. PLEASANT TRIP.-To parties who wish to a rocky point is some to trage attract the evo, at a railroad tunnel, while about its front int thousands of swallows whose needs are sentered over its face, and then a beautini full is seen apparently springing out of the mountain side and failing in foam and spray among the thickets at its bese. Already the maples are turn ag red and gaids in the rays of the summer sun, lending addit on the rays of the summer sun, lending addit on the fars of the summer to the freat is the dark green of the firs. An when the end of the ourney is reached there is time to admire the craggy leights which bound the freat gorge i rough which the mighty Columb a pours.

CITY VIEW PARK SPORTS -At City VIEW park yesterday, Record and Winters were entered for the running race, five-eig the of a mile W nters the running race, flevelig this of a mile. We there were in two straight bents, time, I minute 33, seconde. For the trotting race I adv Mand, Fow.er an I Almin site we're antered. Ain nette won three straight heats, there beling some missuaderstanding about the race, Fowler beling a poor second and _ady Mand. coming in like the little best, a long way ishind. The balloon proved us lat a faiture as it did on the Fourth The balloonists worked hard and did the best they could but the balloon would not go up Sc there is $25 at Ladd & Hiton's benk to the credit of the child en's home, which will do more good than the balloon would if it had seconded The reason, why he balloon cannot be raised in Probaby, because it is made of such thin, sleezy muslim that it will not hold the Cas or heated air. The coating of paint given t did not render it air. Ight, and so it is essentially N G. It in ght be a tuffed with straw and/set up as a monumen of the desappointment it has caused by its failures. Or it might be folled up with a box of giant powder, and any one simbitions of going up in it could be accommodated by rolling himself up in its ample folds. No something with the confounded thing, but let's hear no more of it.

MUBBER IN THE SECOND DEGREE —The jury in the case of the State vs. Wong Foon agreed upon a verticit early yester ay morning. They then went out to breakfast after which sailer ibougherty took a hack and brought Judges stearns and District Attorney Gearn to the court room, where the redict "guilty of mirder in the second degree" was read to the prisoner. Yesterday afternoon Wong Foon was seen in his cage at time county just by an Originator Footer. He seemed very well pleased with the prospect of going to the penitentiary for life, saying, "it is heap better thu hanglug" at the same time making a suggestive motica with his hand alongated bis neck. He talks good English, and has behaved bitmeelf so well, sin, e in the pal-that Juster Dougherty feels vary friendly to him. As he is a cook by trade, he will no doub find a place in the kitchen or panitry at the gentlendary, where congenial abor will make the time pass almost pleasantly to him. In fact, he will be quite as comfortable as outside, but he will have lost what we hill value highest—liberty Ching Hong, jointly indicted with Wong Foon, is another k at of a habroin his proud spirit cannot brook restrant, and he has made himself so disagreeable since in juli that catang.

CLAMS ARRIVED ALL RIGHT -- Professor CLAIS ARRIVED ALL RIGHT -Professor Baird, United States fish commissioner, writes Mr James G, Swan of Port Townsand in reference to the clams which were sent nother refrigerator car from Tacoma on the 2012 of a und, that Mr. Moore had arrived at Wood's Holl with some 5000 clams in good condition. The time occupied from Tacoma to Wood's Holl was just six and a half days. This is the fourth circut trip by the same car from Poget sound to the Atlantic occap, and the commissioner is much attailed and writes. "If here further plane to trip by the same car from Pener sound treet Atlantic ocean, and the commissioner is much grained, and writes. "I have further plans in view respecting to matter of clams, of which I will advise you hereafter? The car will come through in November next with carly, and the people of the Sound should not full to use every endeavor to secure a shipment of lot-slears. There is plenty of carp have now, but there are some people who lon't think so. But it is high time that the Sound was stocked with lobaters. It is well adapted for them and they would be of much more value to this section than carp. If Juige Swam will use his industre. If the well adapted for the sound has came shall have the pealse.

601 OUT OF THE ASY I'M — More Bringer Javin, whe was placed in the Montana meane asylom some time since, a now in this city. She is in her right mind, and claims that she never was meane, but that a job was jut up and she was kidnipped and placed in the asylom. It seems that a fellow wishing to swindle his partner, sold Mrs. Lavin some proporty for much less than it was worth. After, is had settled with his partner he was ned her to let hun have it back, but she referee. Then he is some way had her planed in the asylom, where she was for some time unable to communicate with her friends. At last she succeeded in getting out, and then the villain of the story wanted her to give him back the property. "Not I," was the replacely, "I would be crazy sure snough if idd that." as possible.

Picture of Comport.—Some half dozen or more restic settess have been placed on the plaza black in front of the court house. They were made by Mr. Meyers, keeper of the city park, from vine maple, cherry and other saplings grubbed out in clearing up the park. They are very ornamental and a great conventence for those who make a loading place of the plaza. A fat I himman stretched at his ease in the shade on ore of these settees is a perfect picture of comfort.

Her Views of the Great Novelin's Poetry.

Hum Advance Sheets of Miss Cleveland's Book. George Rilot's prose carrier easily its enormous burdens of consecuracy git. He illies it e incomparable trained elephants of castlern monarchs, which bear at once every treasure—the iron of agriculture, the geom of reyalty—and is its cumberous momentum it on, eistances all or mpetitions. But peetry should belax no burdens. Its rider should shi lightly, with no hint of spur. It should sport along its course and reach its goal unwearded. The borr poet has no agony in the deliverance of the song. The uttering is to alm that sociating baim which the utterance is to his reader.

I theorge Kilot has been said to possess Shakespearean qualities, Perhaps just here, in the realization of manner to matter, is seen her greatest resul blance and greatest riference. No writer, at conceade, ever carried and delivered so much of Shakaspeare. Never was human utterances so packed with wealth, meaning, as leaded with all things that cam be thought or lel., inferred or dreamed, as his. And it all comes with gush and rush, or with gentle murmuring ficw, just as it must come. He takes no trouble and he gives roue. From one of his plays, replete vit, his incomparable wit, wisdom and conceit, you emerge as from an ocean bath, exhlarated by the tossing of billows white rough embrace disolves to tendered; cares yet carries in the 4 hunts of central fire, of utmost borizon, of contact with things in heaven and earth underant of mour photocopher. You come from one of George Eliot's poems as from a Turkish bath of latest science and relineument—appriediative of benefit, but so batte ed, beaten and disjointed us to need repose before yor can be consecued of refreshment.

The irony of fate space not one shiring mark George Ellot cared moet to have the name of post. I venture, Lowever, to 'affirm that agnosticiam can never exist in true poetry. Le verse have every quality which delights e.se, capitystes the intellect, and sits the heart, yet lack that ray which, co ming from a sun beyond our system, reaches, blonds with, vivines and assures the intimation of and longing for immortality in man—lacking this, you have not postry. It is the necessity of the poet, his ration the first should be reached to the poet, his ration there, to meet and join the moving of men's minds toward the hereafter. For all minds tend dither. The diffest mortal spirit must at times grope rest easily and expectantly in the outer darkness for something persond, and this something must oxist, will exist, in the true poen in case I to be defined as neaven, or Paradist, or Hades, or hirvenan but we must not be confronted with silonce, there must be in some way recognition of any sympathy with this despens yeurning of the soul. Many a one, not known, what, not seeing where, but trueting in somewhat had trusting his somewhere, has been a poet and an inspiration to his race. The simplest head-tein gathagrate is appeased with the creatiess faith of her Faust, though it be told in "phrases eitherly different" from the parish priests. Faust, the love-crammed, the howledge-stack, yet fears the unseen, and longs and trusts. His proud will brings no cold, mpenetrable extinguisher to piace upon thus leaping flame of spirit, which sends the groping ray far leyond his immite horizon, ever meeting, moving in its search, because he feels securance of the existence of the something somewhere is, though in the leaping flame of spirit, which sends the groping for the propose of the existence of the existence

THE LEGEND OF WITCH ROOK.

In the midet of a deep wood, not far from this beautiful village of western Rhoos Island, writes a Hopkins Hill correspondent, s an enchanted rock. It is a common boulder, about our feet scroes the top, and not more than two whole wood bears an uncamy reputa-tion in local tradition, and within the memory of the older involutants witches are said to have been seen fitting about the outsite to the forest. The neighborhood of the rock is especially shunned, and belased children rethe torset. The heighborhood of the rick is especially shunned, and belazed children returning from a berrying trip on the hills hasten their folishers as they pass the draded blother more than 200 years ago the reguldes (rofe and Whalley fied from Point Judith to the place, and since that time the stone has been known as Witch rock. An aged Hhode Islander related its legend the other day. "A cuple of hundred years ago," he said, "when settlers had begun to break ground in the neighborhood of Hopkins hill, aw tch made her home in a cabin tha had been rebandened by a pit near close to Witch rock Pecrything within a hundred yards of the rock became on chanted, and she caused the settlers many annoyances by her prints. Tools that were elicit out over might mysteriously disappeaned, cattle were afflicted with singular diseases, stones were hurled through window-panes by unseen hunds, and whenever a hallstoner a furricane swept over the hills, destroying the crops, people saw her flying through the air diving the storm caward with her broom. At last she was driven but of the settlement, but the rock and all the ground about 1 remails enchanted to this day." I can recollect when the wood wis cleared."

"Reynolds started into the field, and the plough ran smoothly enough until he crossed the wirth's line, and then all of a sidden the chip flew off, the ploug edged away, and there were a good many while faces, for nobody knew what might happen next. But the old ploughman was not at all clebaratened. He soon found the chip in the furrow under the turf, and he picked tup and clapped it on the framework. Again the team was started, but in a lifty away flew the clip again, and vanished in the afr, and the crow was found to be unyoled. Mir key nolds I unled the furrow over but could not fin the rule study and the furrow over but could not fin the rule study and the furrow over but could not fin the rule study and the furrow over but could not fin the rule study at the first way, showly, at first, but as soon as the secole ran away a crow came from the north, perchectively to a dead oak near by, and be gan to cry "awy" caw". At this John Hopkins, who owned the magned piece of land and who had been attracted from his home to the shot after the fright of the people, cried lack ""Squawk" you — old Pat. Jenk ins e "When the crow came flying wer, the ploughchip came down out of the air, and the crow changed into an old winnan, with a cocked hat off the air, and the crow changed into an old winnan, with a cocked hat off the surface and willing hands dig arcund shid under the rock, but no trace was found of the cut. After that he lot was left to grow up to weeds with grass and bushes the cabin fell to pieces about the enchanted rock, and finally the thick woods that you now see covered the tracting the witch's stone from the world! While rock is rarely islited, except by hun ers and others who have heard, of the reputation. The furry whoult he bender with he set hundred with is still distincth traceable is pointed out as the tracting the reputation and calculated by the farneers shovels menty one hundred fears age in the effort to mearth the black wich cut that had eluded them — \) but
